TWO CASES.

Let us suppose a case. The law enumerates the qualifications of voters. Among these, it is provided that the voter shall be over 21 years old, that he has resided in the Territory and precinct a certain period of time; that he is a citizen of the United States; is a tax payer; that he must be free from certain crimes named in the law, and that he will not violate the laws of the United States. The registration and election laws are to be administered by a commission of five persons appointed by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the United States Senate. Now, there are many men in this Territory whose sympathies are with the People's party, but who cannot vote, because they are not citizens and do not possess the other qualifications of voters. Let us suppose that the Central Committee of the People's party were to issue a circular to the registration officers and the judges of election, telling them that it would be lawful to register aliens, and admit their ballots, though the law declared otherwise, and the Commission held differently. Let us suppose that, acting in accordance with the committee's address, a registrar were to place on the list the name of a known alien, and an election judge were to admit the vote of the alien to the ballot box, what a howl would be raised! Not only would there be a howl, but we believe the People's committee issuing the circular, and the registrar and the judge of election, would all be arrested, prosecuted, declared guilty of violating the election law, and sent to the Penitentiary. No good citizen would complain if there were such arrest, prosecution, conviction and punishment.

Is the case that we have supposed different from that in which the Loyal League committee is now engaged? The Utah Commission has appointed the registrars, formulated an oath in accordance with the law, and issued a circular based on the plain reading of the law, for the information and guidance of the registration officers; and the Loyal League committee has stepped between the Commission and the voters with a circular to registrars which, if obeyed, will keep off the registration lists the names of hundreds of men who are entitled to vote. The League committee goes further; knowing that the registrars will be prosecuted in civil suits for damages if they disobey the Commission and yield obedience to the League; the committee promises to fee lawyers to defend those it bulldozes or misleads.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE FIELD has felt it necessary to announce that he "is out of the Presidential race forever." It is to be hoped that this will be accepted as notice that every four years hereafter Mr. Field will not bob up as a candidate, remain before the public long enough to see that nobody wants him, and then retire. It is true, Field is the only man who knew that he was ever in the Presidential race, and now he has concluded to get out of it.

SOME TIME ago the President received a plaintive letter from "a little girl only 10 years old," asking him to retain her papa, an infirm physician, as pension surgeon in a New England town. The letter was turned over to the Commissioner of Pensions, who instituted an inquiry, only to learn that the infirm old papa was a sprightly young bachelor of 30. It is hardly necessary to remark that the young man was promptly bounced.

SUPPOSE.

Suppose the People's Central Committee were to formulate an oath covering the oath provided by the Edmunds-Tucker law as issued by the Utah Commission to the registrars, and containing a further provision requiring the applicant for the privilege of voting to swear that he will never, under any circumstances, in any Territory of the United States, commit the crime of fornication. Suppose the committee were to send this oath to the registration officers, with a request that they require all men to take it before registering them, and promising to defend the registrars should they be sued for damages. Suppose a registrar were to comply with the request, how long would he remain in office after he had refused to register a man who declined to take the oath? How many Loyal Leaguers would take such an oath? How long before the courts would interfere to prevent the Loyal League from being deprived of the right of self defense?

"FOR OBSTRUCTING REGISTRATION."

Two deputy registrars—Nells Anderson, of Richfield, Sevier County, and John Whitbeck, of Nephi, Juab County—thought the Loyal League was bigger than the Utah Commission and the United States Congress combined. They thought the League was the fountain head of law and executive authority and power in this Territory. The Commission formulated an oath in strict accordance with the law of Congress and the registration act of this Territory, and sent that oath to registrars to be administered to those people who had the right to vote. The Loyal League committee formulated an oath cunningly worded to deprive Mormons of the right to exercise the franchise. Messrs. Anderson and Whitbeck, assuming that their allegiance was to the Loyal League, discarded the commissioner's oath, and practiced that of the League, refusing to register those citizens who would not subscribe to the latter. Information concerning the high-handed doings of the officious deputies reached the Commission yesterday, and its verification was promptly followed by the annulment of the appointments of Whitbeck and Anderson as deputy registrars.

This is the Commission's very emphatic answer to the impudent intermeddling of the Loyal League committee, and it is a reply which will win for the Commission the commendation and plaudits of every honest man in the Territory, no matter what may be his politics or religion. It is such an answer as fair officials might be expected to return. We hope it will be accepted as notice by all registration officers that they are the servants of the people, not the tools of the Loyal League. The adjustment of whatever problem there may be in this Territory, has not been relegated to registrars and their deputies, who are merely officials with a very plain and unimportant clerical duty to perform.

It may be that other registration officers also adopted the Loyal League "oath" instead of that of the Utah Commission, though if so the knowledge of the fact has not reached us. It is known that in Salt Lake, Utah and Weber Counties, and doubtless elsewhere, the legal oath is being employed. If there are other Loyal League registrars, the summary removal of Whitbeck and Anderson will be sufficient notice to them that they, too, must walk the plank or reform.

THE HERALD congratulates the legal voters of the Territory at the prospect of the registration being conducted lawfully and by the proper officers, instead of by the Loyal League.

ANDERSON OF RICHFIELD, and Whitbeck of Nephi, having lost their situations through accepting the advice of the Loyal League, the League should place them on the pension roll, and levy an extra assessment to provide for their wants.

PROVO IS PULLING.

We must admire and commend the enterprise and foresight of the good people of Provo, though their success in the case in mind will operate injuriously to Salt Lake. The Provo citizens have held meetings and appointed committees and taken steps looking to the substantial encouragement of the Midland Railroad to enter the valley at the Utah County capital. The inducement is not to be all talk, the influential argument to be offered to the builders of the railroad being right-of-way, blocks for depots, machine shops, etc., and perhaps other substantial incentives. Our Provo friends seem to understand better than the Salt Lake residents the advantages to accrue to the city from the location of the Midland's principal Utah depot, and if Provo can capture that depot and make Salt Lake a way station, by offering inducements greater than our citizens can present, we can only say, good for Provo. It would be worth a good deal to this city if the Midland could be brought into this valley via Parley's Park, and one of the canyons on the east, and we believe an effort should be made to induce the adoption of that route before our southern neighbor walks off with the prize.

In the first round between the Loyal League and the Utah Commission we believe it will be conceded that the Commission has drawn first blood.

How does the Loyal League bulldozing committee like the first fruits of its bulldozing?
